Citing Resources: APA Style

APA (American Psychological Association) Resources

CNM Libraries: Citation Help  http://cnm.edu/library/citation.php
APA Online  http://www.apastyle.org/
Purdue Online Writing Lab: APA style  http://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/section/2/10
Citation Style for Research Papers  http://www2.liu.edu/cwis/cwp/library/workshop/citation.htm

Note:  All of the quotations below come from this print source

Sample Citations

Note:  Always ask your instructors for their exact requirements for your assignments

In recent years, most journal articles have a DOI (digital object identifier), a “unique alphanumeric string” which identifies content and provides a “persistent link” to its digital location. (For more information on DOIs, go to  www.doi.org ).

“The DOI is typically located on the first page of the electronic journal article, near the copyright notice,” but can also be found “on the database landing page for the article.”

For citation purposes, “we recommend that when DOIs are available, you include them for both print and electronic sources.” Also, “in general, it is not necessary to include database information” when citing journal articles from databases.

Journal Article with DOI (from Database or Print source)

Health Psychology, 24, 225-229. doi: 10.1037/0278-6133.24.2.225

In-Text:  (Smith, 2005)
Journal Article without DOI (from Database or Print source)
In-Text: (Holst, 2006)

Magazine Article (from Database or Print source)
In-Text: (Johnson, 2006)

Magazine Article (online)
In-Text: (Wissink, 2004)

Book (one author)
In-Text: (Komisar, 1991)

Book (more than one author)
In-Text: (Gwinnell & Adamec, 2006)

Newspaper Article (from Database or Print source)
In-Text: (Lueck & Severson, 2006)

Newspaper Article (online)
In-Text: (Brody, 2007)